Miami, Florida – 01/10/2025 – SocialPost.ai, a cutting-edge artificial intelligence platform designed to simplify social media management for small businesses, announced today that it has successfully secured $1 million in funding through a private placement memorandum. The funding comes from a select group of private investors who recognize the transformative potential of the platform in helping businesses grow their online presence with ease.

The investment will be used to enhance the platform's AI capabilities, expand marketing efforts, and further develop user-centric features, including enhanced customization options, advanced analytics, and seamless integrations with popular social media platforms.

"We are thrilled to have the support of such visionary investors who share our mission of empowering small businesses," said Mohan Kumar, Product Manager of SocialPost.ai. "This funding marks a significant milestone for our company, enabling us to continue delivering innovative solutions that make social media effortless and effective for entrepreneurs and small teams."

SocialPost.ai's platform uses proprietary AI algorithms and a custom LLM to generate engaging, customized social media posts in minutes, allowing small business owners to f   on their core operations. The platform's features include AI-driven content creation, scheduling tools, analytics, and predictive post performance scoring.

Since its launch, SocialPost.ai has helped 500 of small businesses boost their online presence and engagement. With this new funding, the company plans to accelerate growth and make its platform even more accessible to businesses worldwide.

"We believe SocialPost.ai is uniquely positioned to lead the market in AI-driven social media management," said Gregory Scott Henson, a lead investor in the round. "Their approach to automating and optimizing social media for small businesses is exactly what's needed in today's digital-first world."
